

5

Having fully disclosed my invention, I claim:

Claim 1: A movie trivia board game, comprising:

- (a) a gameboard comprising a geopolitical map of the United States having a simulated movie filmstrip with individual frames drawn thereon;
- (b) at least two game pieces for movement on the frames of the simulated movie filmstrip;
- (c) a first set of quote cards containing a movie quote and other facts concerning the quote or movie;
- (d) a second set of cards directing players to move their play pieces in a specified manner.

Claim 2: A movie trivia board game as in Claim 1, wherein said gameboard further comprises frames located above states indicating the birthplaces of famous actors and actresses and other frames specially indicated by stars or other visual indicia.

Claim 3: A movie trivia board game as in Claim 1, wherein said quote cards contain a quote from a movie and facts indicating, at least, the name of the movie from which the quote was taken, the name of the character who said the quote, the name of the actor or actress who said the quote, and the release date of the movie.

Claim 4: A movie trivia board game as in Claim 1, wherein said second set of cards include instructions directing contestants to move their play pieces to the frame designated as the birthplace of a famous actor or actress or to move forwards or backwards along the filmstrip.

Claim 5: a method of playing a movie trivia board game, comprising the steps of:

- (a) placing a game piece on the starting point of a series of frames connected on a simulated filmstrip, which filmstrip zigzags across a map of the United States and ends in Hollywood, California;
- (b) a first team drawing a quote card and attempting to answer a plurality of questions concerning the quote;
- (c) the first team advancing a number of frames on the filmstrip according to the number of correct answers;

- (d) at least a second team drawing a quote card and attempting to answer a plurality of questions concerning the quote;
- (e) the second team advancing a number of frames on the filmstrip according to the number of correct answers;
- (f) a team arriving on the Hollywood frame and correctly answering all of the questions on a quote card.

Claim 6: A method of playing a board game as in Claim 5, further comprising the step of moving the player's game piece to a frame designated as the birthplace of an actor or actress or otherwise as instructed on a second set of cards.

15